excerpt from a handbook of english literature this manual was first issued in 1874s as one of a series intended primarily to assist candidates in preparing for the civil service examinations but in these examinations english literature has never proved a particularly attractive subject and in the second edition of 1880 an attempt was made to extend the utility of the book as a work of reference in this character it achieved a certain success and went out of print in 1895 the publishers decided to re issue it with such revision and supplement as might serve to bring it down to the present date this task rendered more formidable by two and twenty years of dictionaries biographies histories and special monographs the original compiler had neither the leisure nor the inclination to undertake and with his entire concurrence it was entrusted to the capable and experienced hands of mr w hall griffin professor of english language and litera queen s college london about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works this historic book may have numerous typos and missing text purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher not indexed not illustrated 1885 edition excerpt i think rather of four footedness as forming one of the attributes of the animal that is the predicate is conceived as being included in the intension of the subject in consequence of the various aspects in which it thus appears that a proposition may be viewed a good deal of controversy has been excited regarding the real import of propositions mr mill devotes considerable space to the criticism of various theories on this subject he opposes the doctrines that a proposition expresses a relation between two ideas or between the meanings of two terms or that it refers something to or excludes something from a class and in accordance with his theory of the import of terms he holds that a proposition is to be interpreted as meaning that the things denoted by the subject possess the attributes connoted by the predicate now in all such discussions as in the similar discussions with reference to the import of terms considerable confusion arises from allowing the inquiry of the logician to run into the field of psychology the problem of logic is to find out what is the aspect in which a proposition should be treated with the view of securing the greatest accuracy of thought in its use but the import attached to propositions for logical purposes is not necessarily supposed to be that of which alone they admit or even to be the interpretation most commonly put upon them in the confused thinking of ordinary mental life 3 reasoning proper when a judgment is analytic it must be evident to every one who understands its terms its evidence is contained in its own terms in itself it is therefore called self evident whether any synthetic judgments also are self evident is a question that need not be discussed here
